One day later the wolf was shot and found rabid.	[315][316]
Kolya Nechaev (†)	10	♂	January 10, 2009	Predatory	Zavod-Kyn Village, Lysva District., Perm Krai, Russia	Kolya Necheav was killed by a wolf when he was tobogganing with two friends from school. He was riding downhill close to the edge of the woods when suddenly a wolf jumped out from behind the trees, grabbed the boy and dragged him deep into the forest. His two frightened and helpless friends alarmed the adults in the village and in an immediate chase they could get close to the beast, which left back the body of the boy and fled. But it was too late. Kolya had already been strangled. Later an expert stated, that the animal was probably too old and weak to hunt proper prey.	[317][318][319]
Galina Solyanik, Zoe Rybalko and one more woman		♀/ ♀/ ♀	February 11, 2008	Unprovoked	Bohoyavlenka, Donetsk Oblast, Ukraine	Galina and her two friends were attacked by a wolf on February 11 around 4:00 am on the way to the farm. All the victims were hospitalized in the central district hospital	[320][321]
Kyle Keays and family, Rod Barrie and family			December 22, 2007	Predatory	Fort Nelson, British Columbia, Canada	The two families were attacked by two wolves while tobogganing 100 kilometres east of Fort Nelson. Thanks to Shadow, the Rotweiler-cross of Keays, which attacked the wolves when they were running toward the little children, none of them was lifted and taken away. Finally the families could withdraw from the threatening situation. Later Keays, a licensed hunter, shot both wolves as the animals followed the families to their camp.	[322][323][324]
Alycia Beiergrohslain, Camas Barkemeyer and a third woman		♀/ ♀/ ♀	December 20, 2007	Unprovoked	Artillery Road, Anchorage, Alaska	"They were so quiet. They just came right up on us. They were quick. The dogs had no clue. They didn't smell them or hear them — nothing."—"I was rainbowing my pepper spray, and they fell back a little bit But as soon as we would turn our backs to try to go, they would run up on us, and we would turn around and start screaming again, and I would spray my pepper spray."—"We just kept pulling, and they were so big, and they started howling, and they were circling us. And it got us really panicked, and we kept screaming."—"They were not afraid of us and I'm afraid that if I was out here by myself, they would attack me. They were not afraid," Camas Barkemeyer and Alycia Beiergrohslain described their situation, as they and one more friend together with their leashed dogs were surrounded by at least 7 wolves. Luckily only Barkemeyer's American bulldog Buddy had to undergo surgery to mend wounds caused by three attacking wolves after they had finally managed to escape from the threat.	[325][326]
Jouko Vuorma	Adult	♂	September, 2, 2007	Protect	Muhos Finland	Jouko Vuorma, his wife and 2 kids was picking berries 5kilometers from center of Muhos. They separated and he went alone. He bent down to pick berries when he heard sniffing behind him. He looked over and saw a wolf cub, and when he looked up, he saw a female wolf growling at him a few meters away. He started to run away, but wolf started to follow him. After 300meters, he picked up a big stick and turned to approach the wolf. He hit the wolf 4 times with stick before wolf backed down ^[327]
Bekbolat Amirkhanov	50	♂	April 24, 2007	Predatory	Kurmangazinsky District, Atyrau Region, Kazakhstan	The shepherd was grazing the sheep when the attack started. Then he decided to fight the attacking wolf in the way of another countryman by grabbing the animal's tongue. He didn't let go until the wolf exhausted and finally died. The struggle lasted an hour and Amirkhanov suffered multiple injuries on his right hand.	[328][329][330]
Becky Wanamaker	25	♀	July 7, 2006	Predatory	Dalton Highway near campground northwest of Fairbanks, Alaska, USA	Becky was walking along the highway and saw a big white lone wolf twenty yards away. She ran after it began to charge her. The wolf inflicted puncture wounds in both legs and a laceration in one. Wanamaker was able to take shelter in an outhouse until the wolf left. She made her way to another outhouse and awakened campers sleeping nearby, who assisted her. Wolf biologist Mark McNay speculated that human-habituation and the wolf's young age were key factors in the attack. The wolf was not captured. Wanamaker was medicated for potential exposure to rabies.	[331]
Kenton Carnegie (†)	22	♂	November 8, 2005	Predatory	Points North Landing, Saskatchewan, Canada	Carnegie had gone for a walk and did not return to the geological surveyors' camp where he was working. His body was found partially consumed in an area known to be frequented by four wolves which regularly fed on human refuse. The pathologist who performed the autopsy, testified Carnegie had lost about 25% to 30% of his body mass in the attack, with the top midsection to the thigh having been partially consumed. Although originally the possibility that the culprit was a black bear was not ruled out, a coroners' jury concluded after a two-year inquiry that the suspects had indeed been a wolf pack.	[332][333]
Four people			Winter, 2005		Khost province, Afghanistan	Occurred during what was considered the worst Afghan Winter in over a decade.	[334]

Elderly Man (†)		♂	January 5, 2005	Predatory	Village of Vali-Asr, near the town of Torbat Heydariya, northeastern Iran	Wolves entering the village seeking refuge from harsh weather attacked an elderly homeless man in front of witnesses. Those witnessing the incident attempted to fight off the wolves, while waiting for police assistance. Police intervention never came, and the victim died.	[336]
Fred Desjarlais	55	♂	December 31, 2004	Predatory	Key Lake, Saskatchewan, Canada	Desjarlais was jogging three kilometres back to Cameco's Key Lake campsite when he decided to not wait for a shuttle bus. A lone wolf attacked him from a ditch during the jog. Desjarlais tried to frighten it away, but the wolf continued approach and finally jumped on him. A busload of his colleagues spotted the incident and came to his aid. The wolf subsequently fled into the wilderness. His colleagues took Desjarlais to a nearby medical facility, where he received stitches. A few hours later, an air ambulance took Desjarlais to Royal University Hospital where he began a series of rabies treatments. After the attack on Desjarlais, governmental authorities built an electric fence around Key Lake's landfill to prevent further predatory animal attacks on miners.	[337][338]

14 Children			Within 6 months until August 2003	Predatory	Laliya, Auraiya, Bairampur District, Uttar Pradesh, India	Principal chief conservator of forest, RL Singh demanded the villagers in nearby areas for constant alertness and stated: "Since the man eater wolves will not kill grown up humans they can be rounded up and killed. Without the tacit co-operation of villagers and licensed firearm support of the public, the forest officials alone will not be able to contain the wolf menace. This we know from our experience in the worst recorded incident of wolf menace in the history of the 20th century wherein 170 children were killed," he said.	[340]
Scott Langevin	23	♂	July 2, 2000	Predatory	Vargas Island, Tofino, Area, British Columbia, Canada	Sleeping outside his tent on Vargas Island in the early morning the student was awakened by a dark-colored wolf tugging at the foot of his sleeping bag. He yelled and kicked at it without success. Fighting each other the wolf and the man rolled over the campsite. Eventually, Mr. Langevin's screams alarmed his fellow campers in nearby tents, and they scared the animal off. Seriously injured, he was transferred to Victoria for treatment. Later two wolves were destroyed.	[341][342][343]
John Stenglein	6	♂	April 26, 2000	Predatory	logging camp at Icy Bay, Alaska	The nearly 7-year-old John Stenglein and 9-year-old Keith Gamble were playing at the edge of the woods, when a wolf appeared and attacked John. The wolf didn't growl; it just looked at him, John said later. Keith's mother, Teresa Thompson credits their family's dog with saving the boys. John thinks the dog rushed in to	[344][345][346][347][348][349]

						save him too. But the wolf fought off the Labrador retriever and went back after the boys. While the dog and the wolf were fighting, John said, he ran in mud boots about as far as the hospital room door - maybe 20 feet - before the wolf caught him and started biting. John received 19 laceration and puncture wounds on the back, legs, and buttocks. before adult arrived, fought the wolf off and shot it. First he was treated at a Yakutat health clinic and went home to Icy Bay the day after the attack. But two days later, John got really sick, his mother Diane Stenglein said, "He had a fever and said his feet felt like needles". In the Yakutat clinic John's stitches were removed and he was put on antibiotics. Doctors cut away the infected area in the small of his back so it would heal cleanly, the boy's back and legs were covered in bandages.

The wolf was found to have been neither sick nor starving, but in "excellent condition" with good teeth and healthy deposits of fat around its organs. Although a rumor has circulated around both camps that someone had fed the wolf before the attack, but a necropsy of the wolf's carcass found no sign of human food in its stomach

Anand Kumar	4	♂	1996	Predatory	Banbirpur, India	The wolf attacked Kumar while he, his two siblings and his mother were using the open ground for their toilet. When a police search party found the boy three days later, half a mile away, all that remained of the body was the head.	[350]
Zachariah Delventhal	11	♂	August, 1996	Predatory	Algonquin Provincial Park, Ontario, Canada	From the Congressional Record [Pages H7152-H7177]-- "In August, 1996, the Delventhal family of Pittsburgh, Pennsylvania, were spending a nine-day family vacation in Algonquin and joined a group of Scouts in "howling" at the wolves. They were answered by the howl of a solitary wolf. That night the Delventhals decided to sleep out under the stars. Young Zachariah was dreaming when he suddenly felt excruciating pain in his face. A lone wolf had bit him in the face and was dragging him from his sleeping bag. Zach screamed and Tracy, Zach's Mother, raced to his side and picked him up, saturating her thermal shirt with blood from Zach's wounds. The wolf stood menacingly less than a yard away. Tracy yelled at her husband, Thom, who leapt from his sleeping bag and charged the wolf. The wolf retreated and then charged at Tracy and Zach. The charges were repeated. Finally the wolf left. Thom turned a flashlight on 11-year-old Zach and saw, that the boy's face had been ripped open. His nose was crushed. Parts of his mouth and right cheek were torn and dangling. Blood gushed from puncture wounds below his eyes, and the lower part of his right ear was missing. Zach was taken to a hospital in Toronto where a plastic surgeon performed four hours of reconstructive surgery. Zach received more than 80 stitches in his face. Canadian officials baited the Delventhals' campsite and captured and destroyed a 60-lb wild male wolf. No further attacks have occurred since. 	Elderly	♀	1980	Rabid	Estonia	1982.a ründas marutõbine hunt Mahtra külas üksikus metsatalus elavat vanainimest Anna Pärtelit, viimane suri. Hunt läks sealt edasi naabertallu, kus ta majaperemehe poolt maha loodi. Sellest oli juttu ka toliaegses Rapla rajooni ajalehes "Ühistöö". See oli 1950.a., Põlvamaal, Prangli 4-kl. Algkooli naabruses elavat elanikku ründas marutõbine hunt. Olin 6-aastane, koos venna (3) ja vanatädiga peedipõllul. Meist möödus hunt, välisuselt vibalik, peenike, pea longus. Tädi, kes oli eluaegne karjus, pidevalt lambaid kaitsnud huntide eest, hakkas karjuma: hunt, hunt ja meie ka. Õnneks hunt ei pannud meid tähele. Hunt sõrkis Prangli kooli poole ja mõne aja pärast kostis inimeste kisa. Kooli direktor nägi hunti tulemas naabite juurde ja hüüdis naabrimeele, et hunt on sinu aia taga. Mees, kes oli Siberis paljude huntidega võidelnud, otsustas hundile vastu hakata. Ta hüppas üle aia, õnnetuseks seljaga hundi poole, rünnak tuli ootamatult, mees võttis küll hundi pea haardesse, kuid hunt ulatas kõri kallale. Mehe vapper naine surus rusika hundi kurku ja nii päästis mehe elu. Hunt lasti maha. Kannatanud viibisid haiglaravil. Läbi metsatuka viis minu koolitee (600m), mis oli talvel hundikarja poolt sisse sõtkutud. Hommikuti liikus väike rongkäik kooli poole: eespool väikene koer, jumalalauljev vanaema latemaga, mina, viimasena suurem koer. ^[362]

Ertmann, Joseph Fuge	adult/46	female/male	March 15, 1823	Rabid	Mönsdorf village, near town of Rösse, East Prussia (today Mníchowo, Warmian-Masurian Voivodeship, Poland)	Around 5:30 AM the wolf first crossed the yard of farmer Joseph Fuge (* July 15, 1776, in Mönsdorf), then attacked and injured in the immediate neighbourhood both an adult women (Katramski) at her little house and a pig, thereafter in the vicinity another adult women (Ertmann) as well as a cattle and farmer Lingnau, who had tried to help. When Fuge armed with an axe arrived in order to fight the wolf, he himself was attacked and injured. Other farmers arrived and killed the wolf fighting with Fuge and held by him to the ground. Immediately after the attacks the four victims were treated by medical doctors in the nearby town of Rösse. On April 15, Ertmann, who had been injured most seriously, showed symptoms of hydrophobia and died. On April 30, Fuge showed symptoms of hydrophobia too; he died on May 3 at 1 AM at his home.	[387]
